

Mythos CCG Errata, Rulings & Clarification (7.8 9/18/2013) - Alex Broadhead

NOTE: Items in black are 'official' rulings from the Chaosium website and/or The Art of Playing Mythos. Items in red are 'unofficial' rulings culled from the Mythos Digest and/or from transmissions directed by the Yithians into my brain. Note that some 'official' rulings have been modified or supplanted by 'unofficial' ones. In particular, note that entries marked with an asterisk (*) are explicit reversals of 'official' rulings.

Deckbuilding/Mythos Flavors

The rules for deckbuilding and about the various 'flavors' of Mythos have been badly mangled by the migrations from one rulebook to another. Here they are compiled as culled from the various editions of the rulebook:

All Mythos decks must include a single Investigator card; Investigators need not be unique among the players.

All Mythos decks require a minimum of 52 cards (with no maximum).

All Mythos decks use a four card limit (4CL) - no player may use more than 4 copies of any one card by title.

All Mythos decks use a one card limit (1CL) on Unique cards.

There are no further rules on deck contents or playability. Notably, there is no requirement that a player include any Adventures (or Allies, Artifacts, Events, Locations, Monsters, Spells or Tomes - though you do need 52 cards). Players are not required to attempt, or even to be able to attempt to complete Adventures - it can be very difficult to win without them, though, and good sportsmanship requires that players should play to win.

Basic: A game of Basic Mythos ends either with the first play of an Adventure by any player, or with any player going insane, whichever comes first. Basic decks are built using the standard rules (above).

Advanced: Advanced Mythos is simply Basic Mythos with the possibility of playing non-Location cards as your first play(s). It is required for Campaign and Tournament Mythos.

Campaign: Campaign Mythos allows for the completion of more than one Adventure. The usual Adventure Point (AP) total required for completion of a Campaign game is 20, but this number can be set at whatever point the players agree upon. It is strongly suggested that players build their decks around the ability to complete the agreed upon amount of AP, as the only way to win otherwise is to drive another player insane. Otherwise, Campaign decks are built using the standard rules (above).

Tournament: Official Mythos Tournaments require players to play a series of Campaign games (usually to 20 AP). While there are a number of additional rules pertaining to timing and scoring, there are no further restrictions on deckbuilding.

Rulebook (NA) Errata, Rulings & Clarification

The example on p.40 of the rulebook has Reverend Baxter Lully joining with Serpent Men. This is incorrect, as he does not have that ability.

On p.43 of the rulebook, under 'Control', the sentence, "Add the Monster to your own Threat (place it crosswise)," is incomplete and misleading. It should read, "Add the Monster to one of your Directed Threats or use it to create a new Directed Threat (place it crosswise as a reminder that is not your card)."

General Errata, Rulings & Clarification

Cancel: Some cards state that they may be used to 'Cancel' play or use of another card. Cancellation of card play causes the affected card to be (or remain) Buried, while its effects are undone. Cancellation of spell casting causes the Spell to remain flipped, while its effects are undone. Note that while the effects are undone, any costs required to play the card or take the action are not, e.g. any Sanity paid to cast a Spell is still lost.

Day/Night: All Day Events should be treated as if they include the text, "It is now Day." All Night Events should be treated as if they include the text, "It is now Night."

Event Resolution:

Non-Travel, non-Threat Event resolution falls into three classes: Instant, Persistent, or Delayed. Travel Event resolution is generally quite clear from card text; Threat Events are treated separately below.

Instant Events are resolved when played. They should then be treated as if their Special Effects text ended with the phrase, "Then Bury this card," even if that text is not present.

The following Events and Event Subtypes are Instant: Alien Abduction, Amnesia, An Unexpected Calamity (both), Angry Zoogs, Beatrice is Released from the Attic, Betrayal, Black Galley, Blink of an Eye, Catastrophic Failure, Crop Circles, Cthulhu Rising, Discover Secret Cache, Earthquake, EPIDEMICs, Flee To Special Room, Frivolous Lawsuit, Going Postal, Governmental Cover-up, Harney Reginald Opens Fire, Highway Robbery, Hound of the Tindalos, In the Nick of Time, Instability in the Mythos (Gibbons), It's Full Of Stars!, Motion Sickness, Phobophobia, Police Investigation (NA), Poltergeist, Shipwreck*, Succumb to Temptation, Surprise Meeting, The Innsmouth Look, Thieves In Your Attic, Time Flux, Yithian Mental Contact, Yithian Psychic Possession.

Persistent Events have effects which persist until they are Buried or Discarded, usually as the result of other card play. They must have a legal target at time of play, though they may persist without targets. Some Persistent Events also have an Instant effect which is resolved (only) at the time of play; Persistent effects of the Event may acquire new targets as they are played, e.g. new Allies and the two 'Children' cards and/or Television.

The following Events and Event Subtypes are Persistent: Beast in the Cataract, Children Have Nightmares, DAYS, Drought, Guardians of the Great Ones, Media Hyperbole, NIGHTs, PHILIAs, PHOBIAs (except Phobophobia), Serial Killer, STARS, STORMs (except Shipwreck*), Strange Humanoid Encounter, Television, The Children Have Sweet Dreams.

Delayed Events schedule an effect for later resolution. Some Delayed Events have effects which are fully determined when played; in this case the card itself remains in play until resolution, though only as a reminder; Burial or Discard of the card will not prevent resolution. The following Delayed Events follow this template: Ambush, Government Quarantine, Instability in the Mythos (Sullivan), Mugging, Police Investigation (Limited). Other Delayed Events schedule a later decision and can have a variety of effects depending on that decision; in this case the card itself is still 'live' and its Discard or Burial will prevent its resolution. The following Delayed Events follow this template: Rude Awakening, Terrorist Strike, Townsfolk Riot. (Note that in all of these latter cases, due to the specific schedule ('next Turn'), neither the player who is the target nor the player of the card normally has a window of opportunity to prevent resolution; other players, however, might.)

Threat Events: The Subtypes 'Threat' and 'Threat Event' are equivalent. Threat Events acquire targets (or fail to) when revealed, not when played. They may be played to your Threat whether or not they have a legal target at the point of play. If they have no acceptable target when revealed, they are Buried to no effect; otherwise they persist through Combat and are then treated as if they read, "Bury this card at the end of Combat."

First Play(s): "Your Region and Dimension is [sic] determined by the first Location that you play. Until you play a Location, you may not play any cards that depend upon your Investigator being at or in certain Locations or Regions." (NA Rulebook, p.12) Note that in Basic Mythos, your first play must be a Location.

Face-Down Cards:

Allies: Face-down Allies do not participate in Combat (they cannot give or take damage), though they may still be the target of Events and Spells; note that they may not be targetted by Artifacts, Monsters, etc. Face-down Allies' attributes and Special Effects may only be used to qualify or disqualify them as targets of Events or Spells, or to complete Adventures. (NA Rulebook, p.65) They may not be given Artifacts (or Spells).

Spells: Face-down cards may be affected by Event and Spells, including Spells which would flip them face-down. (See Anathema, Dominate, Steal Life, and Wrack.) Similarly, Whirligig can be cast for no effect.

Invisible: Some Monsters bear the Invisible attribute; others have conditional Invisibility (Colour Out Of Space (Limited), Dark Young, Fire Vampires, Star Vampire). Those whose Invisibility is not a permanent attribute should be considered to gain that attribute temporarily under the proper conditions.

Locations:

Current Location/Top of Story: These are not the same thing. Your Current Location is the Location or Travel Event that is face up (or rotated) on top of your Story Deck. At the start of the game (and possibly at other times in the game when you have no Locations in your Story) and while Walking, you have no Current Location. Earthquakes, the Sphere of Nath, and the Wave of Oblivion can affect you while Walking; Cthulhu Rising and the Green Mist of Doom cannot.

Exotic Location: Exotic Location cards are immune from the effects of certain Events and Spells that affect the top card of your Story (NA Rulebook, p.32). Note, however, that Travel Events which are Exotic (due to having been played to leave an Exotic Location) are not, despite being Locations in an Exotic Region (as below) for other purposes, e.g. play of Zenig.

First Location: You may not begin play at an Exotic Location or at any other Location which has a Travel or Special requirement for play. (NA Rulebook, p.36) Note that you may begin on an Island, per the errata to Islands below.

No Location: At the beginning of the game each Investigator is considered to be Outside [Walking]. At any other point in the game at which an Investigator has no Locations in their Story, they revert to being Outside [Walking] in the Region and Dimension of their most recent Current Location.

Travel Event/Location: Just as Monsters in your Ally area become Allies for most purposes (and vice-versa), Travel Events are treated as Locations when they are played to the top of your Story (but not if exposed by Burial or Discard of your top Story card when you have no other Locations - you then have no Location, as above). As such, they may take on attributes as required by other card play, e.g. gaining the Gate attribute while Abhoth is in play.

Monsters as Allies: Monsters played as Allies retain their Subtype (effectively as an attribute) unless or until it is supplanted (e.g. by 'Living Dead').

Play: The word 'play' is used in a remarkably large number of different senses in Mythos. According to the rulebook (NA, p.45), "Each player is entitled to one play during his or her Turn. A play is defined as one of the following actions: Play A Card, Rotate A Location, Use One Artifact, Cast One Spell, Follow Card Instructions, Take Any One Card Action, Flip One Face-Down Card, Pass." Thus, a 'play' may or may not involve the 'play of a card'; this is the sense of 'play' that applies to Hobo/Waif Investigators. Cards in your Story Deck (except for your Current Location) are not 'in play', nor are cards in your hand, Mythos Deck, or discard, and, while Monsters (and occasionally other cards) are 'played' to your Threat, they do not count as 'in play' for purposes of Adventure completion (unless they are GOO, and thus face-up). All other cards on the table are 'in play' (and count for Adventures), whether face-up or not.

Protection:

Named Card: Some cards state that they provide 'Protection' against other named cards (e.g. many Detectives 'Protect' their Investigator against Police Investigation). Protection prevents play of the named card against the Protected player. Note, however, that acquiring Protection will have no effect on a Police Investigation that is already in play.

Artifact, Tome, and/or Spell in Tome: Some cards state that they will prevent the loss of Artifacts, Tomes, or Spells in Tomes (e.g. Seal of Isis, Detectives); note that the card scheduled to be Buried or Discarded (lost) must be the target of that card (i.e. it must satisfy the 'Affects' line or other targeting text).

'Strange' Requirements: A few Adventures have non-card requirements (e.g. On the Edge requires both that you drive your own Sanity below 6, and that you 'Reroll' your Investigator using the Call of Cthulhu Tome). If no other time frame is specified in the text of such 'strange' requirements, these requirement must, by default, have been accomplished since the completion of any previous Adventure. For example, if you are doing SEL I & SEL II (the latter of which requires you to use the Resurrection Spell to play a Cultist from the Past), playing SEL I (or any other Adventure besides SEL II) after Resurrecting the Cultist will 'reset' the strange requirement; you must play SEL II after the Resurrection is accomplished and before any other Adventures are completed.

Travel By Sea Events: The Seaplane and all Travel by Sea Events from Limited (Mauretania, Titanic, Tramp Streamer) as well as The White Ship from Dreamlands should have the phrase "Play this card at a Location featuring the Water attribute," added to the beginning of the Special Effects Box of the card.

Travel/Walking: If, while Walking or Travelling, you change your mind, you may as your Turn Discard the top card of your Story deck and play a new Location or Travel Event as if the revealed Location were still your Current Location. You may not Walk or play Travel Events while already Walking or Travelling. You may take any other action while Walking; note, however, that playing an Adventure while Walking will result in the discard of the player's entire Story, including the sideways Location to which they were Walking.

Catskill Mountains: All 'Catskill Mountains' locations (Martense Mansion, Tempest Mountain) should have the subregion 'Catskills' (i.e. the same subregion as the New Aeon locations Lefferts Corners and Maple Hill) instead.

Islands: The old Island travel restrictions have been overridden by the following general rule: "Islands are Special Locations found within Regions. Threat/Directed Threat: The concept of a Directed Threat was not part of the original rules for Mythos. Cards from the Limited edition which refer to a Threat or Threats should be taken to refer to all cards in Directed Threats and/or any cards in (or still in, in the case of Combat) the Threat area of the affected player. This includes GOO and cards which have been returned to or elected not to leave the 'main' (non-Directed) Threat. (See Barrier of Naach-Tith, Create Bad Corpse Dust, Eibon's Wheel of Mist, Nyhargo Dirge, Sarnath Sigil, Sign of Eibon, Sign of Kish.
